

This has been created by a team of experts including popular FIFPro World XI Goalkeeper Coach Gaverneurd Moure, amongst others. Gaverneurd led the development of the graphics on the Player Motion System from FIFA 19. One of the key improvements in this unique technology is the ability for referees to give tackles and other fouls the correct type of foul to decide whether it is a legitimate foul or not. Of course, only the referee can be sure, but the HyperMotion technology gives the referee a more objective decision. The technology will be introduced in FIFA 22 for the first time for the 3rd Official. The match day will also see the introduction of new features and mechanics that will ensure FIFA 22 remains true to the worldwide popularity of the FIFA series. The following features are being introduced in FIFA 22: Referee Teams Game modes AI Transfer * The above features will be subject to change before release. Referee The FIFA 22 Referee system is being enhanced with a number of innovations. FIFA 22 will introduce the new 3rd Official which includes a new system to validate the authenticity of the foul. Players that tackle each other will be able to request that the referee look into the position of the tackle to decide whether it was an acceptable foul or not. Referees will have the ability to see the player's faces on screen to enable them to make these decisions and make sure that fouls are called as the game progresses. FIFA 22 will introduce a new In-Play Offside decision that will be used in VAR situations. The challenge will be to make sure that the player with the ball is no longer in the in-play area and can safely pass the ball. In this way, the challenge is a decision made on the field of play. Finally, the Referee will be able to keep an eye on players that are below the ball during VAR checks on the field of play. Player Ratings FIFA 22 will introduce a new, more detailed, and refined player rating system to FIFA Ultimate Team that will help the Ultimate Team manager choose players to build their dream Ultimate Team around. FIFA 22 introduces nine different performance ratings that can be applied to players. The ratings highlight the overall performance of the player in the different gameplay categories. These ratings can help the manager decide who to select in each game mode to provide
