Okay. So I am trying to teach myself C#. Every time I try to build my project I get an error that says An attempt was made to load a program with an incorrect format. The original error message is as follows. [0x00000] error:0x00000001, process stopped. I have created a new WCF project, added new reference to System.ServiceModel and also created a new.net WCF Service Application. The only thing I can think of is the way I named the classes in my first project. I called one "service" and the other "service reference" Does anyone know why this error appears? Thanks in advance. A: You should use a signed assembly. So create your own signing key, then right-click your project, select options and then Signing tab. Then add your signing key, of course you have to create it first. And finally, in the properties window, set Signing Level to must sign (you can also use AnyCulture if you wish, too). When publishing, make sure you selected the proper type of service reference (Properties window > Service Reference > Config tab). If all those fail, can you please go to your project root folder and run: svcutil /t:code /o:C:\WcfSecurity.cs /url:"" /useLegacyDllImport A federal judge on Tuesday blocked a Trump administration rule that requires some immigrants to register when they apply for visas, saying it puts U.S. citizens at risk and is contrary to federal law. The House, which is controlled by President Donald Trump's fellow

Republicans, has passed bills to repeal the so-called "public charge" rule that was announced by then-Attorney General Jeff Sessions in October. But the Senate, where Democrats hold a majority, has not voted on them. The injunction is from U.S. District Judge Jon D. Levy of the Southern District of New York. He wrote that the rule violates the Administrative Procedure Act, a federal law that governs how federal agencies implement rules, and the Immigration and Nationality Act. "While this Court may be sympathetic to the Plaintiffs' concerns, the Court nonetheless has a duty to adhere to the law and ensure that all statutes are faithfully executed," he said.
