Or taking a trip with family or friends? The Grand Canyon is beautiful all year round, but the best time to visit is Spring and Fall. Spring is when the temperatures are perfect for hiking, picnicking, and camping. Summer here is often the hottest time, and whilst some people can handle the heat, there are others who would be better off somewhere cooler! Whereas Fall is when the temperatures are ideal for cozy autumn hikes and relaxation under the trees. It's the best time to visit as you can expect the trails to be open, but still have comfortable temperatures. If you are thinking about visiting during the holiday season, beware of crowds! During the holiday season the Grand Canyon is very crowded, and if you visit during one of the peak times, like Christmas, you'll want to plan to get away very early! If you do want to visit this time of year, be sure to book months in advance. When you finally get there, just enjoy your stay! The Canyon is a must see on all of our bucket lists. The beauty will take your breath away! View the photos from our last Grand Canyon hike and our trip to Greece and more in the Travel section. Located in central Arizona, Grand Canyon State Park is the nation's largest State Park and is a National Geographic designated "World Heritage site." The park is home to three national monuments (Grand Canyon, Hoover, and Glen Canyon), as well as the Navajo, Hopi, and Zuni nations, and is many archaeologists' favorite Arizona site. The park was created in 1919, and the surrounding campgrounds were developed in the 1920's. The Camping areas were built in the 1930's and are still being developed and expanded. The village area was built in the 1940's and is located just off the South Rim. The Grand Canyon South Rim Drive is one of the most scenic drives in the country, and is traveled by more than 3 million visitors each year. The South Rim has over a million acres of National Park Service 6d1f23a050
