The language dictionary is generated from MDA scripts which will be used to perform most of the work. The scripts will use a world list of words, compiled from various different sources and will import words from various other languages, thus the result will be a Swadesh list with the exact same words in the world language, rather than an attempt to represent the language of the dictionary. When you upload the wordlist, please ensure its in a clean text format as per the dictionary creation instructions. when looking at other wordlist this is the best way, on the left side select the language you want to translate into and on the right select the language you want to get out of, then click the "translate" button and that's all. Do not choose any dictionary or any wordlist just make sure that both of the item are from the same language. -vlc- It's used in Debian to detect the language used on a system, to detect the user's preferred language and to display it in the languages menu. The openCC dictionary, which is part of the Debian Package opencc, is built from the Minimal Lexical Sample wordlist and the OpenCC Wordlist. Hello admin, I want to ask u.
